

Civil Society Organizations or CSOs as defined by Republic Act 10121 are “non-state actors whose aims are neither to generate profits nor to seek governing power. CSOs unite people to advance shared goals and interests. They have a presence in public life, expressing the interests and values of their members or others, and are based on ethical, cultural, scientific, religious or philanthropic considerations. CSOs include non-government organizations (NGOs), professional associations, foundations, independent research institutes, community-based organizations, faith-based organizations, people’s organizations, social movements, and labor unions.”

The General Appropriations Act provides that a government agency may only transfer public funds to CSOs that have been accredited by the government agency from where funds are sought to be transferred.

As such, Sustainable Livelihood Program Associations (SLPAs), who fall under the category of beneficiary CSOs, are accredited by the DSWD in order to receive funds for the purpose of establishing their chosen livelihood project.

The following are the list of accredited Civil Society Organization Beneficiary Sustainable Livelihood Program Association (CSO-SLPA):
